Abstract Of Disclosure

A toy having a speech recognition function for two-way conversation with a dialogue partner. Digital speech processing circuitry incorporates first and second measures together with speech recognition components, to store speech compression data and recognition data, for controlling sentence generation in response to speech recovered from the partner.